Alumni challenge others to give

Mark '76 and Jill '85 Oman

The Omans are committed to giving back to the school that played such an important role in their lives. "Public support for a student's education is declining rapidly, and has been doing so at a significant rate for a number of years. We all have the opportunity to help students attend the institution that played such an important role in our lives," said Jill.

The 2004-2005 Oman Challenge was established in support of UNI's Annual Fund and matches gifts of donors who join the Campanile Society for the first time or who increase their gift from last year. The Campanile Society honors those who have given $1,000 or more to the UNI Annual Fund.

For more information on the UNI Annual Fund or the Campanile Society, contact the UNI Foundation at 800-782-9522.

For Mark and Jill Oman, UNI was a special place that prepared them for a lifetime of opportunities and provided them with life-long friends. "The quality of education, the quality of the professors and small class sizes – these were advantages that UNI offered us," according to Mark. Both born and raised in Iowa, Mark and Jill feel strongly about the importance of education to Iowa's future. While attending UNI, Mark majored in accounting while Jill majored in office information systems.

The Omans met while working for Norwest Mortgage. Mark is now Group Executive Vice President for Wells Fargo & Company and serves on the UNI Foundation Board of Trustees.

Poet laureate dies

Mona Van Duyn, a 1942 graduate of Iowa State Teachers College and the first female poet laureate, died Dec. 2 at her St. Louis home. She was 83.

After graduating from ISTC, Van Duyn, a native of Eldora, attended the University of Iowa's Writers' Workshop and received a master's degree from the University of Iowa.

She wrote nine volumes of poetry. Among her works are "Valentines to the Wide World," in 1959, "A Time of Bees" in 1964, "To See, To Take," which won the National Book Award for Poetry in 1971, and "Letters From a Father and Other Poems" in 1992. In 1991, she won the Pulitzer Prize and in 1992, the Library Congress selected her to serve as United States poet laureate, the first woman to be chosen.

She also received the Carl Sandburg Prize of Cornell College in 1982 and Guggenheim fellowship in 1972. She also taught at the University of Louisville (Ky.) and Washington University in St. Louis.

Two years ago "Selected Poems" was published. Her 1992 "Firefall" remains in print.

Government code breaker dies

Velva Klaessy, a government cryptanalyst and graduate of Iowa State Teachers College, died in September at her Minneapolis home. She was 88.

Klaessy was born in 1915 in Renwick, Iowa. During the Depression she received a scholarship to attend ISTC. She received a math degree in 1937 and began teaching math in a small Iowa town.

She was teaching high school math in Cherokee in 1944, when a government recruiter was looking for high school students to join the war effort as cryptologists. As all her best students were headed to college, Klaessy took the job herself.

After World War II ended, she worked for the National Security Agency and was part of the technical consultants group. Although much of her work was classified, it is known that she was named chief of the New and Unidentified Signals Division in 1964 and in 1967 was named deputy senior U.S. liaison officer in Ottawa, Canada.

In 1970 she was named senior liaison officer in Ottawa, becoming the first woman to hold a senior post anywhere. In this capacity, she represented the U.S. Intelligence Board and the NSA in all matters dealing with signal intelligence and communications security.

She retired in 1975 in Fort Meade, Md. In 1987 she was diagnosed with Parkinson's disease and moved to the Twin Cities to be close to relatives.
